

I have been reading information concerning the proposal for Broadband Internet over Power Lines. The data indicates a high risk of interference to existing services. The Japanese looked into this and dropped it due to the interference potential to other services. Please thoroughly consider the likely interference before considering this plan and the devastating effects to existing services such as Amateur Radio, Commercial Services, etc.

Sincerely,
Charles Plunk AF40